Service charter

The purpose of this Service Charter is to illustrate, in a concise and clear way, our structure and the activity we carry out, in order to make ourselves better known to citizens and thus make our services more understandable and accessible, easier to stay, more guaranteed rights and clearer the duties to be assumed towards them.

The document represents a dynamic tool for dialogue between the Structure and users, constantly updated, and is useful for improving the quality, transparency and humanization of the services provided by the structure, also in relation to the transformations that are being implemented to better respond to the needs of diagnosis, treatment and rehabilitation, which are related to the incessant progress of neuroscience.

With the Service Charter we intend to forge "an alliance with the people" who choose the structure; we enter into a "pact" in which the Facility and the users decide to commit themselves to a fundamental goal: to improve the quality of life of those who need it.

This public document contains the basic rules that inspire the care activity in our microstructure but also the rules of interaction between guests to regulate their civil coexistence in respect of others but also of the therapeutic objectives set.

USEFUL INFORMATION

PRESENTATION

The "VILLA LICIA" maintenance socio-rehabilitation facility is aimed at all patients coming from facilities with a higher level of rehabilitation intensity who, clinically stabilized but not assistable at home, need a further consolidation of the objectives achieved in the path of autonomy in daily life and in social-work reintegration. Considering the extreme variability, both clinical and social, of the guests and the consequent specificity of the interventions, Villa Licia is a structure with a high care load.

Villa Licia
guarantees a

restricted and

familiar environment in which rhythms and schedules are superimposable to those of the communities of origin of the guests, the presence of other people with similar problems and overlapping objectives, not only reinforces the concept of normalization that the therapeutic team places among the primary objectives of the path, but favors all those resocialization activities also through participation in events and demonstrations in the context of the that also actively involve guests. Each user will therefore be guaranteed the best possible quality of life also through the involvement of the family and social nuclei of origin in the therapeutic project.

ORGANIZATIONAL AND FUNCTIONAL PRINCIPLES

Guests are guaranteed:

- Respect for human dignity and personal freedom, privacy, individuality and religious convictions.
- The continuity of social relationships and relational life, outside the Facility, allowing the guest, compatibly with his psychophysical conditions, freedom of movement inside and outside the Facility.
- Socialization within the structure also with the help of the existing voluntary associations in the area.
- The global social-health intervention through the interaction of all the operators in the area.
- The involvement of the family in the rehabilitation process.

THE GUESTS

- The guests of Villa Licia are people suffering from different degrees of physical, mental or social disability characterized by:
- difficulties and limitations of various degrees in basic autonomy in the management of daily activities (difficulty in managing personal hygiene or living spaces, properly taking care of one's state of health including reliability in taking drug therapies which are often complex and multidisciplinary)
- difficulty in managing resources due to lack of perspective vision (this can concern the management of money as well as that of the resources identified to achieve a concrete goal)
- difficulties in managing interpersonal relationships (respect for others, managing impulsivity, regulating emotions, managing aggression or antisocial drives)
- difficulties of various degrees in the management and solution of problems inherent in everyday life (management of any cognitive deficits with specific therapies and implementation of existing skills)
- difficulties of various degrees in motor activities (compatible with the level of specialization of the structure and with the established therapeutic project)
- difficulties or limitations of various degrees in the level of communication (difficulty in understanding or producing verbal or written messages that are always compatible with the level of specialization of the structure and with the established therapeutic project)
- any psychopathological problems (management of tension and anxiety, emotional support through the management of the therapeutic relationship, problems related to the form and/or content of thought always compatible with the level of specialization of the structure and with the established therapeutic project)

ACCESS METHODS

The staff in charge, delegated by the Medical Director, of collecting useful information on the case, asks the facility or family to fill in a data collection form that contains a summary of the subject's clinical history and his current social and family history, all essential elements for the drafting of the IRP. The Social Worker and the Psychologist collaborate, each for their part, to find all the clinical and social data that can make the whole team informed about the general condition of the patient who requests access to the rehabilitation path.

In this phase it becomes essential to establish a good relationship of active collaboration with the interlocutors, whether they are family members or the territorial structures of origin, it is essential that there is a concrete congruity between the expectations of the family members/referents and the real potential of the guest. Teamwork, respect for mutual roles and the sharing of all the information on the case, often make this path successful.

Only the systematization of all the medical, social, economic, personal and life information makes it possible to make a diagnosis, as correct as possible by the Health Manager who decides, in comparison with the rest of the team, and based on the diagnostic and prognostic framework he has carried out whether to consider the guest suitable for inclusion within that residential unit.

It is therefore useful to underline how the suitability for the inclusion of a patient in a complex rehabilitation process such as the one treated, requires not only the absolute suitability of the guest in clinical, social and behavioral terms, but the possibility that this is actually possible at that precise moment of that residential nucleus composed of those specific people.

Once the patient's eligibility has been confirmed, the waiting list forms will be filled in, which will be based solely on the chronological order of submission of the applications for admission and timely communication will be given to both the patient and the contact persons, whether family or institutional.

Near the presumable entry into the facility, the patient will be contacted again and will be asked to confirm the desire to access the residential path, his contact persons will be contacted to inform them of the methods and timing of entry into the facility, specifying the logistical and organizational needs of the case.

ORGANIZATION OF THE CARE PATH

The guests of our facility constantly carry out internal workshops that promote the maintenance of specific skills and that at the same time are useful in the management of the daily life of the structure, thus fulfilling not only the achievement of the work objectives established in the Individual Therapeutic Project but assigning, to those who take part in the various activities, also a specific "social" role within the micro community in which they live.

Among all the guests, those are identified who, due to personal or clinical characteristics, have the greatest chance of successfully accessing external training courses that are organized periodically to allow a constant increase in the possibilities of autonomy of the individual.

By accessing specific training courses, held with the collaboration of local bodies or associations and regularly recognized, guests can demonstrate that they have benefited from the training process and if they guarantee stability and constancy in the choices made, they can be directed to real work paths which, in some cases, result in permanent employment, guaranteeing the individual an autonomous life in the long term.

It is clear that in order to carry out a path of this kind, always guaranteeing a good level of safety in the various phases, we organize a decreasing level of control to allow the progressive detachment from the support elements, whether environmental or human, pushing the subject to the highest possible level of independence.

RULES OF CONDUCT FOR GUESTS

Within the Facility and as part of the activities and initiatives promoted by it, guests are required to behave responsibly in respect and understanding of the rights of other guests and employees of the Facility. They are also required to respect the environments, furnishings and equipment found inside the rooms and common areas.

The Structure stores and uses the data relating to guests in compliance with the rules relating to the processing of sensitive data in compliance with EU Regulation 679/2016 implemented in Italy with Legislative Decree 101 of 10/09/2018.

GUEST MONEY MANAGEMENT

The management of resources, including money, is a primary dimension of all rehabilitation and autonomy paths for people with disabilities. Each therapeutic team responsible for the individual guest decides on a specific way of managing money that must incontrovertibly respond to the need for self-sufficiency.

Based on the real economic availability of the guest, the team establishes a spending ceiling that must include ordinary expenses (personal hygiene products, cigarettes, recreational outings) and delegates the responsible operator to the periodic control and management of the guest's money.

All expenses made by the guest must be documentable through tax documents (receipts, receipts, etc.) which must be attached to the individual cash register where all the expenses made from time to time will be noted and, at each operation, it will be checked that the nominal balance corresponds to the one actually present in the cash register.

At agreed intervals, and whenever requested, the "expense report" is sent to the guest's external contact persons accompanied by the tax receipts.

On some agreed occasions, and more often during the summer months, trips out of town or extraordinary recreational activities are carried out.

The team will evaluate from time to time the possibility of participation of the different guests in the various activities proposed based on the specific disability, the level of autonomy acquired and, last but not least, also the general economic condition of the patient. Some of the activities not included in the IRP will be fully or partially borne by the guests as well as any need to implement service personnel for assistance during external activities.

The Health Manager delegates to the Facility Coordinator the activity of monitoring compliance with hygiene and health regulations as a primary form of prevention and spread of infectious diseases in community environments.

DOCUMENTATION

The facility maintains a register of guest attendance for every single day, for each guest a "Personal Folder" is opened divided into different areas of specific relevance and compiled by the different operators, each for the part of their competence. It is composed of:

- An administrative file containing all the personal and accounting documentation relating to the guest's situation
- A social file in which all the documents relating to the request and subsequent inclusion in the facility are kept, the documentation proving the degree of disability of the patient and any exemptions from the payment of health services and the like, the reports of any disability of the guest and all the documentation relating to the social and work reintegration process
- A psychological file in which the IRP, the objectives set and any variations between them are reported, the verification tools and the history of their use, the notes of the psychologist referent with respect to the patient and the various progress or failures he has experienced during the course
- A rehabilitation file on which operators and educators can write down their observations, keep the chronology of events and activities with comments to be reported to the team and proposals to be made both in organizational and functional terms
- A health file containing all the health documentation, the nursing record with the medical history and vaccination status, the reports of specialist visits, the instrumental and laboratory tests, the copies of the Therapy Cards with the changes made, the drug prescriptions and all the health documentation sent at the entrance

The guest's Personal Record thus composed remains under the direct responsibility of the individual operators in the parts of their respective competence, both in the part concerning the compilation and updating and the one concerning the safekeeping, all in scrupulous compliance with the regulations in force on the compilation, possession and custody of sensitive health documentation (Legislative Decree 196/03). The documentation is recomposed in a single file every time the Health Manager needs to consult it in full, every time a legitimate request is made by the competent external Authorities or at the time of closure and subsequent archiving which is made and maintained under the direct responsibility of the Medical Director.

There are also the following in the facility:

- The staff attendance register with specifications on the task and work shifts
- The register of deliveries that is compiled by the individual operators in accordance with the provisions of the Internal Structure Regulations
- The attendance register of volunteer staff with information on attendance times and activities carried out
- Any dietary table authorized by the ASL of reference

All the documentation in the structure is constantly updated and monitored and kept available for any possible control by the competent bodies.

HUMANIZATION

An empathetic and human approach to the other allows the recovery of some human values of social interaction such as solidarity, the safeguarding of personal dignity and an authentic positive consideration of the needs of the other. These exquisitely human dimensions are to be considered a fundamental and indispensable requirement to be combined with the equally indispensable technical ability of the operator. Long and very tiring paths such as those to which our patients are subjected, often need structures, understood as functional organizations, which do not require the patient to make a further adaptive effort but which are themselves able to modulate and adapt to the multiple needs of these subjects. The process of humanization and personalization that the company has set itself is therefore an adaptive effort that allows all guests to be able to receive effective treatment regardless of the level of disability possessed, thus satisfying, through the active application of this business strategy, at the same time criteria of standardization of therapeutic action and continuity in the provision of the service.

Behaviors or actions by the staff of the facility that may in any way offend the religious, social or political beliefs of the guest or his family members are not tolerated, condemning in advance anyone who implements behavior aimed at putting them in a state of subjection.

Right to information and active participation

The company undertakes to carry out a timely and adequate update of the family on the status of the relative and on any objectives achieved, thus giving the family the opportunity to actively participate in the path carried out by the patient by making them aware of the activities carried out, of the future planning of the same and sharing goals, objectives, times and methods of verification.

Customer satisfaction

The evaluation of the activities carried out is carried out through a satisfaction questionnaire that must address specific dimensions:

- The information received
- The ways that characterize interpersonal relationships (welcome, respect, courtesy, attention received)
- Punctuality and compliance in the implementation of the agreed rehabilitation programs
- The degree of involvement of family members in the implementation of the IRP
- Hotel services
- The support received
- Confidentiality in communications

The questionnaire can end with an area reserved for observations, criticisms and suggestions.
